

Conference of Youth - COY11

Call for scientific applications

From 26 to 28 November, only a few days before COP21 – Paris Climate Conference, 5000 young people from all around the world will come together for the 11th Conference of Youth. This event will be one of the largest gatherings of international youth in France, a hub of knowledge where scientists and citizens will meet, discuss, share knowledge and start projects. Innovative research will be presented along with inspiring projects, creative artworks, and workshops, just to name a few. Youth-led projects will be highlighted, but all applications are welcome.

During COY11 we want to show that youth is resolutely
Mobilized, united, creative, skilled and responsible!

The following call for scientific applications gives you the opportunity to present your research work to a broad audience of international young people in the context of COP21. Your application will be reviewed by a multidisciplinary committee, including Luc Abadie, Audrey Berry, Chris Bowler, Frédéricq Gay, Annamaria Lammel, Thierry Doré, Thomas Désaunay, Stephan Aykut and Solène Turquety.

This call for applications is open to researchers from all fields (natural, social, economic sciences, etc.) whose work is related to sustainable development and to climate issues. There are four possible participation formats: talk, round table, research poster and popularised poster.

Please submit your research work at COY11, we would be glad to welcome you at this event:

<http://coy11.org/en/call-for-scientific-applications/>

Sincerely,

The COY11 Program Team

Conference of Youth
PARIS 2015